NOTIFICATION

No.F.17-16/1/2016(Acad)/1302 Dated. 18.10.2019

( National Academic Depository )

This is for information of all the passed out students that National Academic Depository (NAD), a national online system setup initiated by the Ministry of Human Resource Development ( MHRD)/ University Grants Commission ( UGC) for digital storage and online issuances of academic awards such as certificates and grade cards in a 24x7 available system. The passed out students can access the awards from any place at any time from the Depository after registration in the NAD. The employer can also verify the credentials of the students from there.

The university has already lodged the convocation awards i.e. Certificate in the NAD for the passed out student of the year 2015 and 2016 of all programmes of study. The awards of the subsequent years are in the process of lodging in the Depository.

In order to access the certificates, the passed out students are required to register in the NAD system. The registration process is simple and can be done with Aadhar number or without Aadhar through this link :

<https://nad.ndml.in/NAD/newStudentRegistrationSecetion.html>

All the passed out students in the year 2015 and 2016 are requested to register in the NAD through the above link so that they can access their awards digitally. Other passed out students are also requested to keep track in the NAD for registration as the process of lodging the data will be completed soon.

This may be treated as urgent and essential.
