

Report on Open book testing Programme of 21st August 2021

Prof Chandana Goswami, Professor, Department of Business Administration and former Dean of Management Studies conducted a training programme for the faculty members of the English Department on 21st August, 2021. The session began with an introduction to the resource person by the coordinator Hemjyoti Medhi followed by a welcome address by the Head of the English Department, Prof B K Danta. The resource person conducted an activity driven session where members of the faculty participated with questions, comments, and critical insights.

Prof Goswami presented on different facets of open book testing beginning with how this kind of testing helps us achieve the "higher order" of learning. The resource person also emphasized the need for multistep problems and parameter driven questions. The resource person suggested that online testing also needs strategic shifts in teaching so that students are prepared for a different type of evaluation practice.
