Online educational methodology, and flipped-classrooms with associated pedagogy of active learning, have quickly emerged as the mainstay of effective education in this century. Blended learning has achieved great impact thanks to the interaction between teachers and students, generating positive results in the teaching and learning process. The methodological aspects used with blended learning based on the use of ICT to develop both online and virtual activities allow the participant to develop cognitive, competitive, critical and constructive thinking skills for problem solving. The UGC has already recommended for a Blended Mode of learning where up to 40% teaching can be done in Online mode. Thus, the knowledge of ICT tools useful for higher education and the training for the effective use of such tools are necessary for all. Main objective of this FDP is to create skills and competencies for proper and effective use of ICT in education.
