

TU faculty, Prof. Nashreen S Islam awarded prestigious INSA Teacher Award

Professor Nashreen S Islam of Department of Chemical Sciences, Tezpur University, has been awarded the prestigious Indian National Science Academy (INSA) Teacher Award for the year 2016, for her excellent contribution to Chemistry education.

The award, which consists of a scroll, cash award of Rs 50,000 and a book grant of Rs 20,000, was presented to her in the anniversary meeting of INSA, held at NISER, Bhubaneswar, recently.

The Academy instituted the INSA Teacher Award to honour teachers for providing guidance, inspiration and mentoring students to take up careers in Science and Technology. All disciplines of Science and Technology including Medical and Engineering Sciences come under the purview of this award.

Professor Islam, former Dean (Research & Development) of Tezpur University, has earlier received the Chemical Research Society of India (CRSI) Bronze Medal for her significant research contributions to Chemistry in the year 2010. She had done her PhD in Inorganic Chemistry from North Eastern Hill University (NEHU) and was nominated Council Member of Chemical Research Society of India (CRSI).
