

TU Student Honoured with iCONGO Awards for Social Service

Ms. Jurismita Puzari, a 4th semester student of the Department of Mass Communication & Journalism of Tezpur University has been honoured with the National Silver Karmaveer Chakra for making best contributions towards educating the underprivileged and the AFRC Apeejay Karmayuga Bronze Chakra for rendering commendable services for social empowerment for the year 2014-15. Instituted by iCONGO (Indian Confederation of NGOs) with an objective of recognizing the real life unsung leaders who believe, “It is better to light a candle than to curse the darkness”, the awards recognize Jurismita’s proactive and voluntary action-oriented move to impact and lead the citizens for social change. She has proactively associated herself for the social uplift of the Mising and Tai Phake communities of Assam apart from her services rendered for the cause of the underprivileged like the aged living in old-age homes, orphans, physically challenged children and those living in remote areas.

The awards were conferred on Jurismita during the iCONGO’s REX Conclave 2014-15 held on 21st of March 2015 at New Delhi in partnership with the United Nations.
