

Collaboration for SDG best practices

Tezpur University actively collaborates on Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) through international conferences and capacity-building projects.

In one of such efforts, Tezpur University is part of the AdaptNET project supported by the Erasmus+ initiative of European Union, aimed at enhancing climate-smart agricultural education and research in India. This project includes a consortium of eight institutions from Greece, Italy, and India, focusing on building resilience in climate-smart crops. These collaborations underscore Tezpur University's commitment to advancing SDG best practices through global partnerships.

In addition to AdaptNET there are several other collaboration programmes listed and depicted in the following link.
