Inviting EOI for Action Research

TU/TLC/EOI-02/19

Date: 24/04/2019

Action Research is a process of study through which a teacher (or a researcher) can collect data from her/his day to day activities (say, in a class) in order to scientifically analyze them to arrive at some conclusions, which will potentially make her/his everyday practice more efficient and effective. We may face such challenges in the classroom or while evaluating the performance of students. Action research shall allow a teacher to decide if the alternative(s) is better than the current practice.

Teaching Learning Centre, Tezpur University would like to sponsor few action researches in an attempt to help find better pedagogy to make teaching learning more effective.

Interested faculty members of Tezpur University may express their willingness to conduct such research through Expression of Interest (EOI) by sending a mail to the undersigned along with a brief plan of work clearly mentioning the proposed title, statement of the problem, objective(s), proposed methodology and clear time frame. The write-up should also contain a brief expenditure statement. Please note that TLC shall give priority to the proposals that concludes within 30.09.2019.

TLC shall try to accommodate as many standard proposals within its limited resources subject to screening by an Expert Committee. Selected contributors shall be open to seek expert opinions in a one-day Workshop on Development of Structure for Action Research, schedule for which will be notified later.

TLC shall be able to support such research works with reimbursement of expenses in actual (to a certain limit) and with a nominal honourarium.
