Doctoral Symposium

Objective: The PReMI 2019 Doctoral Symposium will be held at Tezpur University, Tezpur, India, on Dec 17, 2019- the first day of PReMI 2019. It will be a forum for PhD students to showcase their research works in different topics of PReMI 2019. The presenters will benefit from lively discussions and critical feedback on their work. We, hereby, request PhD advisors to nominate their PhD students who are close to graduation to submit abstracts to this doctoral symposium.

How to nominate: PhD advisors can nominate his/her PhD students by mailing their names to premi2019@tezu.ernet.in

Abstract Submission: Each nominated PhD student needs to submit a two-page abstract and the list of his/her publications. The abstract should contain the motivation for the research problem, prior work, the solution approach and analytical or empirical results. The abstract should use the same template as used for the conference. The abstract and the list of publications should be submitted as a single PDF document by sending an email to: premi2019@tezu.ernet.in Abstract Review: The abstracts will undergo a review process. The selected students will present their work in the PReMI 2019 Doctoral Symposium.

Award: Based on feedback from an expert committee during the Symposium, best graduate student and runner-up awards will be conferred.
